WAT PRENG

The Preng Station serves as a modest hub for this predominantly rural community, staffed by amiable station agents who persuaded me that, although walking to the temple was an option, the 20 Baht fare for a motorcycle taxi was a worthwhile investment. Ultimately, their advice proved accurate, and I resolved to express my gratitude to them upon my return.

The temple embodies the essence of a rural sanctuary, exuding tranquility amid the backdrop of ongoing construction.

Among the latest additions is the "Chapel of Glass," which features a strikingly beautiful, oversized Buddha statue crafted from weathered bamboo. This captivating sight is enhanced by the chapel's effective air conditioning, providing a refreshing escape from the sweltering midday heat of approaching summer.
